REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The Committee of the Town of Upper Gilmanton, in compliance with the law of the State, respectfully present the following Report, for the year ending March, 1860:

DISTRICT No. 13.

Summer Term, Miss Juliett E. Robinson, Teacher. The general features of this school were commendable. Good improvement was made by that part of the scholars who were well disposed, and applied themselves to their studies, but the discipline of the school was not such as to secure the requisite amount of progress to the dilatory and inattentive.

Winter Term, Moses E. Stevens, Teacher. During the visits of the Committee there was stillness, order, and attention highly gratifying. A fair progress was made by all the classes. The teacher aimed at thoroughness in study, and strict discipline, but perhaps a little more energy would have increased his usefulness. It is a little presumptive for a teacher to commence a school without a certificate.

DISTRICT No. 14.

Summer Term, Miss Nellie M. Leighton, Teacher. There were but few scholars in this school, and all were under the age of twelve years. Considering the length of the school, and the age of the scholars, good improvement was made. This was of course an orderly school.

Winter Term, Miss Mary D. Leighton, Teacher. The appearance of the school was such as to indicate that a fair improvement had been made by the scholars, though their advantages are not as great as other districts. But it is hoped that the interest manifested by the parents for their school, will in some degree make up for what they lack in pecuniary ability. The town should adopt some measures, if possible, to strengthen this school.

DISTRICT No. 15.

Summer Term, Miss Sarah O. Parsley, Teacher. The discipline of this school was not sufficiently strict; there was far too much idleness and confusion; consequently but little improvement was made. The teacher doubtless had good intentions but was unable to overcome the difficulties with which she had to contend in this school. Some improvement was made by that portion of the school, who were well disposed, and applied themselves to their studies. This school is not in a condition where it is safe, to employ young and inexperienced teachers.

Winter Term, Thomas E. Hunt, Teacher. The Prudential Committee wisely determined to employ a teacher who was perfectly able to meet the wants of this school. But I had serious doubts at my first visit whether order could be secured from so much discord, and urged the necessity of holding the reins of government with a firm hand. As the school closed prematurely, from fear of the scarlet fever, I did not visit it at its close, but from what I am able to learn, the condition of the school was very much improved.

DISTRICT No. 17.

Summer and Winter Term, both taught by Miss Ellenora Green. The teacher commenced her school with some misgivings as to her ability to maintain authority, and carry out the wishes of the district. Yet in these her first efforts, she proved herself competent to meet the wants of this school. The teacher was strict in discipline and thorough in instruction. The scholars industrious, and prompt in recitation, both working together, the school made good improvement and ranks among the best in town.

DISTRICT No. 18.

First and second terms, taught by Miss Narcissa S. Kimball. Having taught in this district during the previous year and given good satisfaction, the district were wise in again securing the services of Miss Kimball. She fully sustained her former reputation as an instructress, and labored zealously to promote the best interests of her pupils, and the result was excellent improvement by all the classes.

DISTRICT No. 19.

Summer Term, Miss Josephine T. Lamprey, Teacher. This first effort of the teacher has proved highly acceptable. The order, improvement, and average attendance reflected honor upon the parents, teacher, and scholars. The progress of the scholars was such, as to merit the approbation of all the citizens of the district.

Winter Term, Miss Amanda A. Hadley, Teacher. Your committee did not visit this school at its close as the teacher was obliged, by the ill health of her father, to leave sooner than was anticipated, but from what we can learn, I think it was a well managed and profitable school.

DISTRICT No. 21.

Summer Term, Miss Flora A. Rowe, Teacher. The committee have no praise or censure to bestow upon this school, not being notified of its close through the neglect of those whose duty it was to give the information. It is hoped the school was a profitable one.

Winter Term, Joseph Plummer, Teacher. The committee acted judiciously in securing the services, of one so well qualified for his station. This school was one of excellent character and much improvement was made. When a district with but little money, are so fortunate as to have a good teacher, they should if possible make the school at least three months long. If a school has been in session eight weeks, four weeks added are worth as much as the first eight.

DISTRICT No. 22.

Summer Term, Miss Emma D. Bean, Teacher. Though this was the teacher's first school, yet the order and progress of the school were commendable.— And I am happy to state that visitors, parents, and scholars have expressed their decided approbation of it.

Winter Term, O. S. Sanborn, Teacher. Mr Sanborn has truly manifested the spirit and energy of a scholar. When he first applied for a certificate, the committee thought him not fully prepared to teach. But instead of being out of humor and discouraged, he entered zealously upon the work of preparation, passed a good examination, and has more than answered expectation in his first attempt in ruling and moulding the youthful mind. Order good. Improvement satisfactory we think to all concerned.

DISTRICT No. 23.

One Term, Miss Narcissa S. Kimball, Teacher. Most of the scholars in this school were large and attentive to study, consequently they made considerable progress and were quite thorough. The school houses in this district and in No. 18, are in no way fit to accommodate the scholars, being low posted, ill constructed, naturally ventilated specimens of ancient school architecture. We would therefore earnestly recommend that the two districts unite, and build a house in a central position, which will be creditable to the district and an honor to the town.

DISTRICT No. 25.

Summer Term, Miss Martha O. Plummer, Teacher. The general features of the school were deserving of credit. The teacher seemed to be anxious to make her school one of the first order. The scholars made fair improvement and their deportment was good. The teacher remarks, "The scholars were mostly studious and well disposed. Nine did not whisper for the term." If more time had been devoted to mental arithmetic, more would have been accomplished.

Winter Term, Miss Louisa A. Eaton, Teacher. The appearance of this school when last examined was such as to satisfy your committee that its reputation as a good school was not undeserved. An unfortunate embarrassment, on the part of the older scholars, hindered them from exhibiting themselves favorably. But the younger scholars, being more unreserved appeared much the best, and manifested an interest in their studies that would have been creditable to scholars of a more advanced age, and exhibiting a degree of thoroughness, exceeding that of any other school in town.

DISTRICT No. 29.

The Summer and Winter Terms, both taught by Miss Lourette M. Lamprey. We consider it a judicious course to employ the same teacher for several terms, when one has been found who possesses the necessary qualifications. Much improvement was made during the year. At the close of the Winter term the examination, though rigid, indicated that the instruction had been faithful and profitable. The larger scholars deserve commendation for their gentlemanly deportment, and obedience to the regulations of the school. If the parents in this district were obliged to exchange places with their children for one week we think they would vote for some repairs.

DISTRICT No. 30.

Summer Term, Miss Flora E. Forrest, Teacher. The committee of the district was fortunate in procuring the services of Miss Forrest, for the second time.— Her method of discipline was of the strictest form, and instruction thorough and practical. Good progress was made by all who were constant in their attendance; but the frequent absence of many prevented them from making great advancement. It is unjust to expect a teacher to instruct children, when those children are not sent to school. "Why will so many lightly esteem the best opportunities, to unfold and strengthen their mind, garner up those rich stores of knowledge, which in the future cannot fail to be sources of happiness, honor and power?"

Winter Term, Mr S. Lowell French, Teacher. Examined and reported, by J. W. Wells. From the interest manifested in the school at its commencement, we were led to expect good improvement during the term, and our expectation in this direction was fully realized, so far as our examination extended at its close. Our time being limited, we were unable to go into so thorough and extensive an examination of all classes as was desirable. Our attention was particularly directed to the advancement made by several classes of smaller scholars; their improvement in reading, accuracy in spelling, and promptness in answering questions in Mental Arithmetic, showed conclusively that the interests of this portion of the school had been well cared for; and so far as we pursued the examination of the classes of larger scholars, there proficiency was equally as good. Instruction in this school was thorough and systematic. As a teacher Mr French, is energetic, and devoted to the interests of his pupils, firm in discipline, and thorough in instruction, ranking deservedly among our best teachers. We would congratulate the pupils in this district in the prospect of the removal of the old school house during the present year, and having in its place a new and commodious structure, where they can enjoy the blessings of a good school, without endangering life or health.

From the foregoing careful statement of the condition of the several public schools in town, it is evident that they are, as a whole, entitled to the confidence of the community. Their expense is small compared with the amount of good they effect, and the time, and labor bestowed upon them. Yet they will never become what they should be without the more hearty cooperation of parents. Their influence lies at the very foundation of the whole system of improvement. We would suggest therefore that parents fully consider the importance of a good education for their children, that they ever keep in mind the fact, that their success in life, their position in society, and their future usefulness depend upon the correct cultivation of their minds. Parents do not feel, as they should the necessity of punctuality, and regularity, on the part of their children. They do not reflect how much they do towards retarding the progress of the whole school, or realize the evil they do their own children by thus inculcating habits of disorder, idleness, and negligence. The teacher's office at the present day is no sinecure. It is a peculiar feature of our system of education that its methods, studies and means, must improve with the progress of the general mind, and keep pace with the improvements of the age. Therefore, from year to year we must have more thorough, and better qualified teachers; who have specially qualified themselves for their work, and fully appreciate the importance of the most thorough and correct instruction in elementary principles. We believe the remark a true one; that, "An individual may glory in college honors, and yet be wholly incompetent to take charge of a common school." It is not enough that a teacher was qualified to teach last year. The system of teaching is progressive and the successful teacher must keep himself informed of the improvements that are constantly being introduced. They must be advancing in knowledge or they will not long be acceptable as teachers.

Your committee would recommend that particular care and caution be exercised by Prudential Committees in the selection of teachers. "The Prudential Committee often engages a teacher without any knowledge of his reputation or character and sends him to the Superintending Committee for a certificate.—The examination is regarded as a mere form to be submitted to as something which the law requires in order to obtain a certificate. So unimportant is the examination considered, that teachers sometimes" begin their school without a Four teachers the past year thus began their schools. (I had to examine them after they had commenced.) "Of course I had then to give them certificate or make trouble," though in two cases at least I was satisfied the certificates ought not to be given. But it requires a good deal of firmness to refuse a certificate when the candidate has already commenced his school. It is understood that the Superintending Committee has nothing to do but approve those whom the Prudential Committees employ, and if they refuse to do it are very likely to gain the ill will of the Prudential Committee, the teacher, and all the teacher's friends. Let your Prudential Committee therefore be men who will exercise judgment in the selection of teachers, who will perform their duties promptly, fearlessly and impartially, "having no respect of persons" and having "an eye single" to the means which are productive of the greatest good.

In conclusion your committee would beg leave to call your attention to the following Table, prepared from the teacher's reports, and containing an abstract of the items included in the report to the Secretary of State, the value of which must depend primarily on the care and fidelity of teachers. Some reports appear to have been made with attention but too many contain errors that we have not the means to correct. The report and table, with all their imperfections, are respectfully submitted to the favor and criticism of the public.

S. LOWELL FRENCH, Superintending School Committee.
